The Dhemaji police have chargesheeted nearly five dozen people of an organization fighting for the settlement of the Hindu illegal settlers, in connection with the Silapothar clash where a group (/taxonomy/term/2415) of violent protesters attacked some local student (/taxonomy/term/2404) activists and damaged their organization.

The police team probing the March 5 incident in Silapothar filed the charge sheet at a local lower court in Dhemaji on Saturday imposing a number of tight sections against (/taxonomy/term/1929) the NIBBUSS leaders (/taxonomy/term/2082) who allegedly attacked the local AASU leaders (/taxonomy/term/2082) and demolished their office marking an end of the rally demanding settlement of the Hindu Bangladeshi immigrants.

Sources told Assam Times that the authorities have imposed a number of tight sections of the laws to ensure that they won't be able to get bail early.

AASU leaders (/taxonomy/term/2082) are not available for reaction who lodged a complaint before the Silapothar police after the clash which triggered statewide protest demanding stern action against (/taxonomy/term/1929) NIBBUSS leaders (/taxonomy/term/2082) whom police arrested later.
