Gauhati High Court on Saturday is expected to hear the sensational gangrape case of Diphu where two minor girls were raped by an ACS officer along with his three associates two months back.

Police officials probing the case are fully prepared to submit the findings charging Pradip Timung of raping the minors before his trafficking effort.

The deputy director of panchayat & rural development was accompanied by Hemari Kro and Biren Kro, officials of the inspector of school office and Anthony Phangcho who is an official of a conservation NGO (/taxonomy/term/2157).

The incident took place in May. But initially police investigation refused to progress forcing people to move the court.
