Normal life in many parts of Assam remains completely paralyzed on Tuesday when an Ahom organization enforced a 12 hour bandh (/taxonomy/term/100) opposing the move to auction 12 oil fields. The bandh (/taxonomy/term/100) mainly disrupted normal (/taxonomy/term/2062) life in the upper Assam districts where schools and colleges, shops and markets, banks and offices refused to open.

Roads in these parts wore a desert look as (/taxonomy/term/2291) all vehicles stopped plying from (/taxonomy/term/2015)6 (/taxonomy/term/2015) in the morning. Bandh supporters in some places tried to enforced the call by burning tyre on the roads (/taxonomy/term/2454).

The bandh (/taxonomy/term/100) which is set to end towards the evening, however, had hardly an impact in the lower Assam district apart from the Barak (/taxonomy/term/2317) valley districts. The Ahom organization gave the bandh (/taxonomy/term/100) call to oppose the move to auction 12 lucrative oil fields. They said that they would never allow it to happen.
