Assam elephant dead in B'desh

AT News · 14:06, 16 Aug 2016 · 8905 views · 1 min read

A full grown elephant from Assam died in Bangladesh \(/taxonomy/term/2420\) on Tuesday a couple of days after it reached the neighbouring country by travelling on the river Brahmaputra \(/taxonomy/term/2226\).

The elephant was learnt to have passed away early in the morning making futile all efforts to save the animal \(/taxonomy/term/2081\) which slipped into the mighty river two months back.

According to the experts, the animal (</taxonomy/term/2081>) was too weak after it was repeatedly tranquilized and therefore, the treatment did not work.

The incident took place when a team of forest officials was on its way to visit Bangladesh (</taxonomy/term/2420>) to take the elephant in their possession.
