Guwahati: Brindabon Goswami on Friday retains hot seat of Asom Gana Parishad (AGP) at the end of “shameful” and acrimonious hustings full of clash and controversy.

Speaking to Assam Times, senior party leaders here say the former education minister and MLA from Tezpur emerged consensus candidate on Friday afternoon in the three day long conclave which began on Wednesday to conclude on Friday.

“We have been trying to avoid an election and we have to suffer a lot on Thursday night in the election process as the sitting president Goswami and his one time close aide Phanibhushan Chaudhory vied for the hot seat. Ultimately, we had to hammer out a solution to end this impasse,” they say.

“The meeting unanimously elected Goswami’s rival Chaudhory as the executive president which is widely appreciated in the party,” they inform.

The brainstorming session ended in the wee hours without electing a new president not to speak of strengthening the party and the much touted reunification with the AGP(progressive) led by former Chief Minister and founder president Prafulla Kumar Mahanta.

Veterans like Dr Arun Sarma and Sarbananda Sonowal's bid to quell the situation proved failure forcing the party's poll panel to stop the process. But some leaders here say both these veterans made their desperate bid to stop the poll process to enable Goswami to continue the office.

The party reconvened its meeting at 11-30 in the morning and a proposal was moved to announce Goswami as the consensus candidate for the presidentship and his rival Chaudhory as executive presidentship. The move was simply accepted in the meeting.
