In a daring high profile strike, a group of rebels have kidnapped former Arunachal Pradesh Chief Minister Gegong Apang's youngest son Getam Apang on Wednesday night from Itanagar. The rebels have already talked to Getam's family members. The entire incident was kept in dark and later it's spreading like wildfire in and around the capital town of the north eastern state. Police have been remaining clueless.

According to information received from Itanagar, the militants stopped Getam Apang at Helangi Road in the capital town while he was riding on the car bearing No AR 01-9696 and forcibly took him away.
