Despite the shocking serial attack on innocent people in Kokrajhar and Sonitpur districts, Assam is gearing up for Christmas (/taxonomy/term/75) celebration to mark the birth of Jesus Christ.

Churches, shops and markets are wear a fresh look on Wednesday evening when the Christians across the state are celebrating the X (/taxonomy/term/2012)-Mas (/taxonomy/term/2013) evening.

Churches in the various places are teeming with the people who are all prepared to attend the mid night carol songs on the eve of the much-awaited day.

Special prayers would be held tomorrow morning in the churches. Assam Times House greets the Christian people on the occasion. In a statement released on Wednesday evening, all time editor Babul Gogoi hopes that the festival would bring a ray of hope for the trouble torn state where love, kindness would reign supreme.
