Dr. Bhupen Hazarika Foundation [DBHF] will launch its first annual Bhupen Hazarika Jajabar* Music Festival on November 5 in Guwahati.

Organizers say it aims at stimulating interest in the various aspects of Bhupenda's legacy ranging from music and the arts, to education, to the pursuit of social change and justice.

The overall plan is to celebrate his life with his fans in India even as we find ways to introduce his work internationally. As the music maestro preferred music and communication of ideas to bring people together, there is need to seek ways to employ music and mass communication to convey his message to 'remember to be human by respecting each other as humans!' Toward that end, his song Manuhe Manuhor Baabe, which has been translated into over twenty different languages, will be the foundation's anthem.

This year, Dr. Bhupen Hazarika Foundation will host a two-day program of live performances on stage in parallel with a social networking & marketing fair with booths available for cultural, educational and commercial groups and individuals. The Foundation will also host educational forums and presentations by speakers on critical subjects.
