A strong lobby is in a process to move a bail petition (/taxonomy/term/2109) in the Gauhati High Court on behalf of Rakesh Paul (/taxonomy/term/2168) who a local court has remanded to 14 days police custody a day the APSC chairman was arrested in Dibrugarh.

According to sources, Paul (/taxonomy/term/2168) and his associates are contemplating to move the bail petition (/taxonomy/term/2109) before the Supreme Court if the High Court refuses.

On the other hand, his arrested seems to have worried many political leaders (/taxonomy/term/2082) and student (/taxonomy/term/2404) leaders (/taxonomy/term/2082) whom he allegedly favoured. A team of top police officials has been interrogating Paul (/taxonomy/term/2168) to extract his revelations on the corruption charges pending against (/taxonomy/term/1929) him.

Paul (/taxonomy/term/2168), who has been hitting media headlines for corruption, nepotism, favouritism allegedly has amassed properties beyond his known source of income forcing the erstwhile Tarun Gogoi (/taxonomy/term/2150) Government to probe the allegations. But under mysterious circumstances, the probe refused to proceed.
