

National sanctuaries submerged in flood

Comments 0

editor 27 June 2012 8993 views

Flood waters have submerged the Dibru Saikhowa National Park and Kaziranga National Park as the Brahmaputra and its tributaries are flowing above the danger level. This has forced the animals in the abode of wild horses to shift their base to high lands. On the other hand, Kaziranga National Park authorities have taken steps to protect animals including the prized one-horn rhinos. According to information, of the 168 camps in the park, flood water has affected 36 camps while special camps have been set up in the northern range to place the rescued animals. The park remains closed from May till October during the rainy season in Assam.

editor

Please send your comments to editor@assamtimes.org

BY EDITOR

Witch hunting rerun in Chirang!

Police remand for Nagaon culprit

Candle lighting rally

ULFA condoles demise of SS Khaplang

Beef puts M'laya BJP in the red

ON THIS DAY

Zubeen Garg (1972-2025): the voice that carried Assam's soul to every corner of the world

Veterinary school inaugurated

Three arrested in Kokrajhar

Fire in Gurudwara Complex Shop in Namrup

Shillong Hackathon 2017
