Pobitora under surging waters

AT News · 13:17, 5 Jul 2016 · 10987 views · 1 min read

The overall flood scene in Assam refuses to improve on Tuesday with incessant rains that lashed the state (/taxonomy/term/2332) for the last couple of days. Part of the Pobitora Wildlife (/taxonomy/term/123) Sanctuary in Morigaon (/taxonomy/term/101) has come under the surging waters (/taxonomy/term/2337) forcing many birds and animals to shift their places. More than 1.5 lakh people have been reeling under the current flood wave in Morigaon (/taxonomy/term/101), Sonitpur, Lakhimpur and Dhemaji districts where relief and rescue operations are in progress. The situation threatens to take more grim turn if the rains refuse to relent.
