A Guwahati based young reporter dies of heat stroke today. Khanin Das, who worked for Dainik Batori, felt a kind of chest pain during a meeting in the city and soon he collapsed. Khanin, 36, was immediately taken to GNRC Hospital, where the doctors declared him brought dead.

Hails from Pathshala in Barpeta district, Khanin started his journalism career as a city reporter to Amar Asom and later he shifted to Edinor Sangbad.

The city scribes paid last tributes to Khanin at Guwahati Press Club and his office (Dainik Batori) before his dead body was taken to his home town Pathshala for cremation.

Khanin, who was also a promising sculptor, left behind his wife and a son.
